BRASS SLING

- Tapered neoprene pad with non-skid surface hugs the shoulder
- Attaches easily to most tubas, baritones and euphoniums with Neo-Loop connectors
- Can be fastened to an instrument's strap rings or wrapped around the tubing

Neotech's BRASS SLING offers extra support for many brass instruments. The NEO-LOOP™ connectors fasten to the instrument's strap rings, or around the instrument's tubing. The longer loop at the bottom fits the larger tubes on certain instruments. Simply snap the quick disconnects to the strap and you're ready to go! The non-skid surface on the back of the pad assures that it remains securely on your shoulder. It also pulls pressure away from the lips as there's no longer the need to use the lips as a balancing point. When an "extra hand" is what you need, the BRASS SLING is just the thing! (Extra NEO-LOOP™ connectors sold separately see page 15).

TROMBONE GRIP™

- Creates a comfortable custom grip to support the weight of the instrument
- Easy to attach
- Adjustable to 18 positions
- Fits most trombones

Neotech's innovative TROMBONE GRIP™ supports the weight of a trombone while maintaining the proper playing position. It's designed to be adjusted to fit both the instrument and the musician's hand, providing unparalleled comfort, balance and support while playing.

In order to achieve a custom fit for any style/size of trombone, Neotech's TROMBONE GRIP™ comes with three sizes of wraps (bushings) along with several shims to create the perfect platform for the hand grip to snap on. Once the correct bushing type is selected and firmly attached, the hand grip is easily affixed. It can be adjusted forward and back as well as at a slight angle to create the perfect playing position. This means that the TROMBONE GRIP™ can be placed in a position for optimal support and balance of the instrument. The grip incorporates a soft, durable neoprene strap which closes securely and comfortably across the back of the hand. It allows for a full range of movement and a comfortable, yet secure hold on the instrument. While the custom-fit bushing remains on the instrument, the grip portion is easily removed for storing and transporting the instrument.

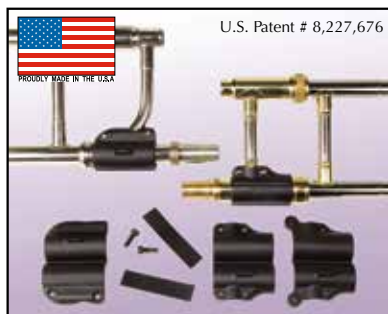

Musicians of all ages and those with smaller hands can now hold a trombone without undue stress on the hand and fingers. This keeps musicians free from potential long-term injury and enables them to concentrate on their technique and music rather than on the strain of holding the instrument.
